The FutureWork Playbook podcast launches with Gunderson partner Natalie Pierce. FutureWork Playbook takes a look at the future of work with top emerging companies and leaders around the globe to discuss technologies and innovation to develop new playbooks for work, in concert with Gunderson Dettmer partner and chair of the firm's labor & employment practice, Natalie Pierce.

In the first season of FutureWork Playbook addresses "Return to the Workplace". As Americans and the global economy come out of an unparalleled time in history, Natalie speaks with emerging companies and their teams on how they are tackling the future work of our economies, workforce and the laws that govern them.

Natalie's first guest features Gunderson client, Red 6, and their CEO, Dan Robinson. Red6 leverages augmented reality to simulate training for the military. They are making an impact on the way the military approaches training, works remotely, and engages at scale. The first episode, featuring Red6, will be exploring from a critical side of the spectrum how the military will need to be prepared in moving ahead with new training protocols and training modules to continue making them effective in leading global military forces and rescue initiatives.
