Client News

May 13, 2026

Gunderson Dettmer represented client XBOW, a leading platform for coordinated vulnerability disclosure, in its $35 million additional Series C financing from Accenture Ventures, DNX Ventures, Liberty Global Tech Ventures, Samsung Ventures and SentinelOne S Ventures.

The fundraising extends XBOW's previously announced $120 million Series C round and will enable the company to further its go-to-market expansion and international growth strategy.

"We're learning in real time from teams operating at massive scale, and using that insight to build faster for defenders on the front lines," said Oege de Moor, founder and CEO of XBOW, in the announcement of the transaction. The strongest alignment is when your customers are also in the trenches with you as investors and partners."

The Gunderson deal team was led by Richard Hesp and included Alex Bloom and Tess Oatley.
