Esha is a corporate fund associate in the New York office.

Esha advises venture capital and other private equity fund managers on fund formation, operations, and compliance. Her practice includes establishing funds and their related general partner and management company entities. Esha works with fund managers throughout the fundraising process, including preparing offering documents, negotiating fund terms with investors, and drafting partnership, limited liability company, and other governing agreements. She advises established firms and first-time fund managers, and provides ongoing counsel on governance, compliance, and day-to-day fund operations following fundraising.

Esha also writes on regulatory issues affecting investment advisers. Her published work examines the evolving landscape of anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism compliance requirements.
